

Verb: To Systematize

Sugar. Her tears sweated off her face with rapid quickness.

She could not contain them. Salty sweet.

Crystallized drops of memories cascading down her cheeks. She licked them as they crossed her downward

So sweet and

open. Burnt

Sliding softly,

vulnerability

reflection.

Burning,

maple,

No,

not foreign,

Generations of

systems

She swallowed

sweet tooth

All done in

Sweet sweet

with residual

Golden soiled

every inch of

Candied dark

A history of

warmly baked

Oh Sugar, that

bitch named

curved lips.

she cried. So sweet and she poured sugar.

she watched herself profess to her mirror, declare sorrow to her charred sugar, steaming like boiling processed labor, foreign proletariat.

familiar.

sugar, processed sugar, burnt sugar, ruining lives delegated by sugar.

her grandmother, her mother; a for somnolence.

silence.

sugar, face dipped in honey, sticky guilt.

folding against every bit of skin,
being.

apple.

melancholy
surrounds her.

miserable
Sugar.